THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

THANK YOU!
FOR YOUR SUPPORT

Dear Friends,

Time, talent, treasure and trust. We all have a collection of precious resources we share with our community. The College of Veterinary Medicine benefits from the generosity of countless individuals who choose to share their assets to advance the meaningful and impactful programs and services related to our land-grant mission areas. On behalf of our faculty, staff and students, I am honored to express our most sincere gratitude for your incredible friendship, kindness, and investment in our people and programs.

We are grateful to those of you who have generously shared your treasure by creating an endowment. You make it possible for us to continue our tradition of advancing the health and well-being of animals, people and our environment through education, research, outreach and service. Endowment funds have a transformational impact on the college. They establish a network of encouragement and support that strengthens and solidifies our legacy and tradition of excellence by providing reliable sources of revenue for the college. Endowment donations are invested and a portion of the annual income from the investment is distributed to support the purpose of the fund in perpetuity. The remaining funds are reinvested to continue growing over time and positively influencing the careers of our faculty, students and staff and the lives of our patients, clients and families. When we invest in people, we invest in their potential to impact the world in ways not yet imagined. When they succeed, we all benefit.

We greatly appreciate all you have done to support our people and their potential and the impact this has on our program and the animals and people we serve. Together we will create remarkable opportunities that will have a far-reaching and enduring impact. Together we will ensure our college continues to be a leader in advancing the health and wellbeing of animals, people and the ecosystem.

We are most fortunate and grateful for your continued support and engagement with the college. Thanks to you and countless others, we are better able to deliver on our ambition to Be The Model™ comprehensive college of veterinary medicine in the world, impacting animal and human health through innovation, collaboration and excellence.

Sincerely,

What is the Ohio State Endowment?

The Ohio State University endowment is a long-term investment pool (LTIP) of gifted endowment funds and university funds, totaling more than $5.2 billion.

Endowed funds preserve gifts in perpetuity so they can power the university's core mission — education, research, knowledge creation and community service — for generations to come.

Endowed gifts create dependable, perpetual funding through long-term investment.

Through an endowment, you can create permanent benefits for the people and programs you care most about.

How do endowments work?

Endowments operate much like mutual funds.

Each named fund owns a number of shares in the LTIP, based on the value of gifts to that fund. The number of shares owned is used to calculate the distribution to the fund.

The distribution is then administered in accordance with the fund description and purpose, by the college or university department designated by the donor(s) and the Board of Trustees.

At the request of the donor, any unused distributions may be carried forward from the current fiscal year into the next, or be reinvested to principal, securing additional shares in the LTIP.

What is the minimum funding level for an endowment?

New endowed funds are established by the Board of Trustees upon receipt of a gift of $50,000 or more for an unrestricted endowed fund and $100,000 or more for a restricted endowed fund.

How is an endowment established?

Gifts are held in a pending endowment fund until the principal balance reaches the minimum funding level.

The principal is preserved in perpetuity and 4.5 percent of the average market value per share during the past seven years is distributed annually to the endowment fund.

For each new fund, endowment descriptions are created and approved by the donor, the university department that will administer the fund and the Board of Trustees.

The endowment description outlines how the fund will be used and ensures donors' wishes and the university's needs are met.

What is an unrestricted fund?

Unrestricted endowments — minimum funding $50,000 — provide discretionary funding to the university or a specific college.

The university's president or provost, or a college dean, uses the distribution to respond to urgent and emerging priorities.

What is a restricted fund?

Restricted endowments — minimum funding $100,000 — allow donors to direct their support to the people and programs of their choosing, such as students, faculty, research and other initiatives.

The college's dean or the department chair oversees expenditures from the fund under the guidelines outlined in the endowment description.

What do endowments support?

Endowments may support teaching, research, departmental and interdisciplinary programs, student scholarships, and facilities such as libraries, laboratories and classrooms.

They may also serve to honor or memorialize someone. For example, you could name a fund in memory of a family member.

The endowment also supports University Advancement, the team responsible for building and maintaining relationships with alumni, donors, grateful patients and other supporters.

What fees are assessed?

The following allocations support University Advancement and administration of the LTIP and individual endowed funds:

- A one-time assessment equal to the first six months of distribution on newly approved endowed funds
- Investment expenses are deducted from published returns on the LTIP, and vary annually
- A development fee and an oversight fee—together totaling approximately 0.45 percent based on the gifted portion of the LTIP
